

ABSTRACT

A method for facilitating voice signatures includes identifying a document to be signed, creating a speakable identifier summarizing the contents of the document, creating a voice script including the speakable identifier, and using the voice script and the document to be signed to facilitate the creation of a voice signature. A method for creating a voice signature of a document includes receiving instructions having a voice script and an indication of a document to be signed, recording a user reading the voice script, and creating a voice signature including the recorded reading of the voice script. The voice script includes a speakable identifier summarizing the contents of the document,

10